

Meet Kohl Goodfellow

Thirteen-year-old Kohl Goodfellow was able to join his classmates at school camp on a trip to Stewart Island, thanks to a Halberg Activity Fund grant.

The Dunedin local has a visual impairment which means he requires additional support when moving through an unfamiliar environment.

Kohl's mum, Tash, says that her son is an adventurous guy and gave everything at the camp a go. Tash is very grateful for the opportunities Halberg provides and that Kohl can participate in an experience that sighted children and adults can.

"Experiences like this will provide Kohl with life skills and new learning journeys that will help extend and engage his physical and coordination development whilst feeling included amongst his peers," Tash says.

Kohl's favourite experience on his school camp was engaging in the bush walk and listening to the birds.
