Meet Samuel Baylis

Five year old Samuel Baylis can now cycle with his friends and get fit thanks to his trike funded by the Halberg Activity Fund grant.

The Palmerston North local has Cerebellar Atrophy and Global Development Delay and his family were seeking to find an activity that would strengthen his core, legs and balance.

Samuel's mum, Jennifer, says that her son finds 'nothing as a challenge but everything as a possibility' and after he trialed a trike, they knew he had to have one.

"He was very excited to give pedaling a go. Having a trike will enable Samuel to partake in his school's bike day," Jennifer says.

Samuel's family are thankful for this opportunity to have his own trike as he is now able to be out in the community and can use it at school with his peers.

"The funding from the Halberg Foundation has meant that Samuel can have opportunities available to him like other children of his age," says Jennifer.
